Look What's Premiering This Fall

Best Time Ever with Neil Patrick Harris (NBC)

If there was ever a person suited to bring back the variety show, it's Neil Patrick Harris. The Emmy- and Tony Award-winning actor is a singer, dancer, magician and just generally a doer of funny things. Based on the popular British series Ant & Dec's Saturday Night Takeaway, Best Time Ever features appearances by stars, stunts, comedy skits, incredible performances, mini game shows, audience giveaways and hidden camera pranks. If you can think of it, it'll probably pop up on this hour-long series.

Best Time Ever with Neil Patrick Harris airs on Tuesday at 10:00 p.m. on NBC (channels 5 and 205 in HD).

Life in Pieces (CBS)

A fantastic cast highlights this multi-generational family comedy that's told from the point of view of every family member. Babies will be born, kids will go to college and sitcom situations will go down at funerals. Dianne Wiest, James Brolin, Colin Hanks, Zoe Lister-Jones, Angelique Cabral, Thomas Sadoski, Betsy Brandt and Dan Bakkedahl star.

Life in Pieces airs on Mondays at 8:30 p.m. on CBS (channels 3 and 203 in HD).

The Muppets (ABC)

Everyone's favorite (or at least top 10) puppets are coming back to television, but this time, they have even more sass. This new version of The Muppets is presented as a modern-day documentary catching us up with Kermit, Miss Piggy and everyone else as they go on with their professional (running a late-night show) and personal (puppet romance!) lives. ABC is pitching this as a more adult version of The Muppets that's still good for kids of all ages. The Big Bang Theory's Bill Prady will run the show.

The Muppets airs on Tuesdays at 8:00 p.m. on ABC (channels 4 and 204 in HD).

The Grinder (Fox)

Rob Lowe can't stay off TV for too long! He headlines this comedy about an actor on a popular legal TV drama who returns to his small-town home to work in his family's real-life law practice with his brother (Fred Savage), despite only knowing law from the scripts of TV. What could go wrong? Umm, lots. But maybe that small town will teach him a thing about humility. Hey, this writes itself.

The Grinder airs on Tuesdays at 8:30 on Fox (channels 7 and 207 in HD).

MRV TV SUMMER 2015— THAT'S A WRAP!

MRV TV had a busy summer and is really looking forward to the steady pace of fall—school schedules, sports, and the unfolding of Vermont's natural glory.

Our summer video camp was a wonderful example of what community TV can do for kids and families. Parents, siblings, and friends all enjoyed popcorn and laughs at the premiere of "DA Lost Crystal," the five-minute piece that the entire class of budding videographers worked on for a week in July.

Other fun things MRV TV covered this summer were the annual Vermont Festival of the Arts, the amazingly unique performances at Phantom Theater, musical concerts, kids camps, and more. Through the wonder of technology, MRV TV is now able to download access programming from around the state to air on our Valley community channels, including history lectures from the Ethan Allen Museum, movie criticism from Montpelier film experts, and lots more Vermont-themed programs.

Mad River Valley Television is the Valley's public access television station dedicated to giving community members access to the airwaves. MRV TV's Channels 44 (Community) and 45 (Municipal) are part of Waitsfield Cable's basic tier of service. To learn how you can be involved with MRV TV, please call Alex MacLay, Station Manager, or Tony Italiano, Technical Director/Media Manager, at 583-4488 (44TV) or send an email to tv@mrvtv.com. You can also stop by the studio offices at the north end of the Village Square Shopping Center. Visit us at www.mrvtv.com to view selected programs like "DA Lost Crystal," see our schedules, and find additional station information.
