TV Disturbances Due to Seasonal Sun Interference

Beginning in early October and continuing through the middle of the month, disturbances to TV signal reception may occur when the sun passes directly behind a satellite. This usually lasts only a few minutes and is a natural phenomenon that affects both satellite and cable company reception.

Check Out What's Premiering This Fall

La Brea (NBC)

This new series follows a world where a massive sink-hole has opened in the middle of Los Angeles. The hole has pulled hundreds of people and building down, and survivors are finding themselves in a new, mysterious, and dangerous land. Meanwhile, those who remain on ground are trying to understand what happened and search for any survivors.

La Brea premieres on September 28 on NBC (channel 5) and will air on Tuesdays at 9:00 p.m.

Ghosts (CBS)

Ghosts is an upcoming American television sitcom adapted from the 2019 BBC series of the same name. The comedy follows Samantha (Rose McIver) and Jay (Utkarsh Ambudkar) who inherit a country estate and plan to turn it into a bed-and-breakfast, but they soon realize it's haunted by a great number of previous residents.

Ghosts premieres on October 7 on CBS (channel 3).

Queens (ABC)

Starring Eve, Naturi Naughton, Nadine Velazquez, and Brandy, Queens follows four women in their forties who reunite for a chance to recapture their fame and regain the swagger they had in the '90s when they were legends in the hip-hop world.

Queens premieres on October 19 on ABC (channel 4).

Our Kind of People (Fox)

This series follows a strong-willed, single mom as she sets out to reclaim her family's name and make an impact with her revolutionary haircare line that highlights the innate, natural beauty of black women. The show is a soapy, thrilling exploration of race and class in America and an unapologetic celebration of black resilience and achievement.

Our Kind of People premieres on September 21 on Fox (channel 7).

Wakefield Series is Coming to Showtime

Scheduled to premiere on October 18 on Showtime, Wakefield is an eight-episode psychological drama that shines a comedic light on what happens when the sanest individual working in a psych ward begins to lose his grip.

The series is inspired by show creator Kirsten Dunphy's personal experiences and follows Nik Katira (Dharmalingam) who after years working as psych nurse at Wakefield, is exceptionally good at his job. With a gift for soothing the afflicted and reaching the unreachable, he's the most stable person, but his own sanity starts slipping. The question is... why? Tackling the complexity of mental illness with humor and heart, Wakefield explores the fine line between sanity and madness, powered by an intriguing psychological mystery.

Wakefield* has a planned premier date of October 18 and will air on Mondays at 9:00 p.m. on Showtime (channel 420).
